INA RITA WINS STEEPLECHASING IN AUSTRALIA IS KEEN SPORT. CRESCENTS BEAT

PARTY OF AUSTRALIAN STEEPLECHASERS TAKING THE WATER JUMP.

USTRALIANS and New Zealanders are among the keenest sportsmen on the face of the earth. All English sports have been assimilated in these countries, and some others, such as kangaroo hunting, have been added to the list. The flat racing is famous the world over, and the blood of antipodean horses is being utilized freely both here and in England, As on the flat, so also in steeplechasing. The fields average very large, and the competition is hot. The style of racing is in many ways more like ours than that of the old country. The pace is better from start to finish than in England, and it is evident from the accompanying photograph that the jockeys go at their fences just as fast and recklessly as they would have to if they wanted to win at Sheepshead Bay or Morris Park,

The photograph is of a race named the Findon Harriers' Cup, run near Melbourne. The representation of horses jumping is about the most astounding revelation that instantanecus photography has made of action. The horse in the foreground has his forelegs tucked right under him, while his off hind leg is projected beyond the forelegs. How a horse can land over such a big jump in such a position and stand up passes comprehension. It is, however, to be said that of the horses shown, eight in number, only four finished over a twomile course, and the horse in question may have been of those that fell by the way.

The kindred sport of hunting is extremely popular in spite of the fact that naked wire, generally barbed, is very largely used. This is jumped with as little concern as a sheep hurdle, and it is claimed that horses can be schooled to negotiate it with just as much safety, if not more, than timber. Of course, it stands to reason that when a horse has once come to grief over barbed wire he will never chance it again, if he survives to do so, and the entire system is bound to create fine, bold jumpers that can tackle any kind of a country.

Pugilistic Prestige Is an Evanescent Thing Unless It Is Cultivated.

By Mr. Chat.

It seems to me, without having delved very deeply late the present pugilistic situastigation of the running ing made. At any rate, it is surely up to a December 9. heavy weight champion like Jim Jeffries humble opinion, he was managed nearly as badly as a man could be, never was so absolutely lost in the dim heze of the "what-might-have-been" as is Jeffries. Prestige, whether it be that of a gene ne another's rul-riders will come thing pales. It is an evanescent will come thing unless it is sedulously cultivated and nourished. Even the profits that accrue from picture privileges and theatrical ex-biblitions will not continue forever, and if the champion's prestige is all the time getoo 1. ding nearer the zero point the upshot is wal, bound to be disastrous to his reputation.

Lelia Smith bound to Lelia Smith bound to facts, the pond tween second I have mentioned before in this column—

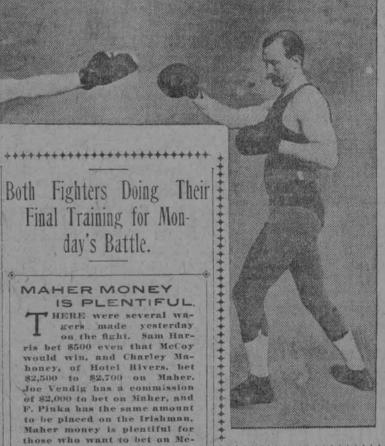

I have mentioned before in this column—

I have mentioned before in this column that Jeffries is professedly matched against such a "relic" as Corbett, the battle to take place on the Continent no sooner than next September—is what is taking the edge off Jim Jeffries's "rep."

Dobby Makes Three Goals.

Dobby made all three points for the Crescents. The first was scored within three minutes after the game began. Drakeley carried the rubber down the rink and passed it to Dobby, who placed it between the flags.

Captain Bob Wall assisted Dobby on the two other occasions in which he scored. Dobby was not, however, in exceptional form, for he made many bad shots for goal and tumbled frequently.

Crescents Must Brace.
